CMCL & IPRIA invite you to a book launch

Landmarks in Australian Intellectual Property Law

hosted by Mallesons Stephen Jaques

Please join us to celebrate the publication of this new book published by Cambridge University Press and edited by Professors Andrew Kenyon, Megan Richardson and Sam Ricketson of the Melbourne Law School, when it is launched by Dr Emmerson QC. This authoritative text provides a picture of how Australian intellectual property law has developed as a distinctly Australian body of law during the century since Federation – taking a selection of key intellectual property cases, situating them in their social contexts, and telling their stories as well as providing factual details about the arguments and evidence. Landmarks in Australian Intellectual Property Law is a valuable resource for academics, researchers, practitioners and judges in Australia and throughout the common law world.
